

Responding to Relationships

Couples Counseling Retreat

Responding to Relationships is a customized event series tailored to bring transformative relationship skills to active duty military, veterans, emergency responders and their partners. Each five-star retreat series is led by facilitators with first-hand experience in the field. All couples who are seriously dating, engaged, or married are welcome, and invited to learn in an engaging, safe environment as they dedicate intentional time to one another.

The Weekend Retreats take place in Denver and begin on a Friday night. Day 2 you will learn strategies for meeting and exceeding expectations, communication breakdown, and setting boundaries. Saturday night you are encouraged to have a fun date night experience and the retreat will wrap up on Sunday.
